

Matt Granato

Washington DC-Baltimore Area

Summary

I am an experienced voice over artist and media professional with clients including Microsoft, John Deere, and Major League Baseball.

Through my extensive career as a producer in the country's top media markets I have diverse experience in content creation and media production, along with a proficiency in script writing and interpretation. Because of this I have developed a reputation for delivering top-quality voice overs under tight deadlines, interpreting client's needs with limited direction and number of takes. I specialize in corporate narrations, e-learning narrations, commercials, and audio books. In addition, I am highly skilled in audio production and offer this as a premium added value to all clients I work with.
